

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The invention provides a A multi-modal interactive dialogue apparatus and method that has inputs and outputs of different data types, for example audio and visual. The apparatus is provided with a data store in which data relating to properties of the different types is stored, and this data may be used to control how a dialogue with a user progresses.